

$30,000 FIRE IN FRANKFORT

TYPHOID DANGER IN AREAS HELD GREAT; "SHOTS," "BOILING" URGED

ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

GOOD NEIGHBORS— Emergencies bring out the best in human beings. This was demonstrated recently in flood rescues, when men and women left the comfort of homes to rescue marooned families. Others opened their homes to those made homeless. Character values were revealed—character values unhappily too often hidden under everyday striving for a living. Facing deep distress, mankind still reaches up to challenge, revealing an inherent godlikeness. That's something to be glad about.

BURDEN BEARERS—Our village authorities are burden bearers who deserve public support. They must, in the nature of circumstances, meet their obligations as public servants while making a living for their families. The smallness of the municipalities deprive officials of freedom in public improvements available to officials in larger and more heavily taxed communities. Since that is so, demands upon our elected village officials in moments of need—like flood conditions—should be tempered with an understanding of restrictions placed by us as voters and taxpayers upon our officials.

"PUBLIC'S RESPONSIBILITY."—Do you believe in law and order? Do you believe that before the law all persons are equal—or should be? Do you often wonder why open violations of village laws, or state laws, go on with seeming impunity? Maybe you do not, but it is known that some of your neighbors raise such questions. Too many persons willingly call attention of village officials to violations—or alleged violations—but at the same time say, "But don't get me mixed up in this." The highest type of citizenship demands ALL citizens participate with officials in ENFORCING the law. The best way to help them enforce law is to sign a complaint and go into court to make the complaint stick. Until you are willing to do this, do not expect village officials to spend their time in detective work.

DISASTERS—Last week disaster piled upon disaster. Tornado in Oklahoma-Texas, earthquake in California, another mine disaster in Pennsylvania, train wreck in New Mexico, another plane crash—death, which is not so bad if it comes quickly; pain, suffering, which tear at heartstrings; loss of loved ones, a calamity. Why? Some with consciences not too clear fear God is visiting punishment for "sins," others who are good but fear they are not good enough to get into "promised land" or just don't want to go there—at least, not right now—say that the "time is near at hand." Fact is Mother Nature always runs a high fever and festering breaks out periodically. And we take them all as natural events.

HIGH PRICES—Mr. Truman last week hit hard at business men who encourage high prices and contribute to a possible economic collapse. His threat to back labor in demanding higher wages if price spirals continue sent chills up many a business spine. If Mr. Truman and his "side" and business and its "side" and G.O.P. and its "side" could forget political and personal ambitions for a mere few weeks and harmonize their efforts, regulations fair to everyone could be worked out, prices made equable, and a later collapse of our economy avoided. Mr. Truman was largely right about business not being without heavy responsibility for high prices, but since Mr. Truman seems loyal to an organization famous for political trickery, his word cannot be taken as

To prevent a possible outbreak of typhoid fever, Dr. Theodore Z. Polley, acting Will county health officer, urges all persons in flooded areas using private wells to boil all their drinking water for "at least 10 minutes at a rolling boil." This procedure should be followed until all the wells in the contaminated areas are tested and corrective measures have been taken.

Typhoid immunization clinics have been set up for the flooded areas in Joliet, New Lenox, and Lockport in Will county and by Cook county authorities in Tinley Park and other communities. Immunization consists of three injections of typhoid fever vaccine given one week apart. Three clinics are to be held in each area.

Even though these injections may be given too late to prevent an attack of typhoid, they do shorten the duration and lessen the severity of the disease. Typhoid causes an illness of at least three to four weeks, with a fatality average of about 10 percent of the cases.

Dr. Polley emphasized that it is important that all members of every household in the flooded areas be immunized, since a person of any age or condition of health can have typhoid. Symptoms of typhoid fever usually appear in about three to twenty three days after infection or on an average of 10 to 14 days. The infected person may feel tired and out of sorts for a few days, and then other symptoms may develop, such as loss of appetite, a dull headache, a fever which rises a little each day for about a week, and sudden constipation or diarrhea. Any of these symptoms should result in a call to a physician without delay.

New Lenox Band Wins 9 Places In State Try

Nine soloists from New Lenox grade school band were winners in the contest at Downers Grove last Saturday for places in the state band contests in Bloomington next month.

Qualifying were Lois Cox, baton twirling; Richard Huffman and Ronald Chesmore, clarinet; George Johnson, Marilyn McClain, Ann Archibald, saxophone; James Hammond, baritone; Robert Zussag, trombone; Glenn Ruthenbeck, drums.

Winners are in Division 2, schools of 250 to 500 enrollment. No others in this division placed higher than New Lenox winners.

Band Director W.H. Reed entered the band, a drum quartet, and 14 soloists in the contest.

HONORS COME FAST

Honors heap high on some people, lightly, if at all, on others. There's Rene Guindon—beg pardon. Really now it's His Honor Police Magistrate of Mokena Rene Guindon and also a member of the Semmler Papers staff.

In addition to being elevated to the judiciary, His Honor now finds a relative—in Canada—occupying large space in our metropolitan newspapers. The relative is Miss Jeanette Guindon, shown in procession with bridesmaids on the way to the Dionnes' (of quintuplet fame) private chapel. The groom is Ernest Dionne, brother of the quintuplets, all of whom are shown in the photographs following the bridal couple, at North Bay, Ontario.

The girls are now 13 years' old, or will be May 28 of this year.

entirely free from partyism.

HENRY WALLACE—Singing his song of "United States wrong" and "Russia right," our former vice-president is in England all hot and bothered because the United States refuses to coddle Russia and its communistic spirit. Many of us think FDR made many mistakes—or worse. But one mistake he did not make—to "clear through Sydney" Mr. Wallace's renomination. For which the United States can be mighty glad.

ORLAND JUNIORS BUILD SETTINGS FOR TOMORROW NIGHT PRODUCTION

Orland Park high school juniors have been actively working for tomorrow night's presentation, in Orland Park high school gymnasium, of the "Vampire Bat."

Juniors have built their own stage setting—that is, the setting was made by the stage crew, which is composed of Elmer Manning, Mable Uthe, Claudine Owens, Blanche Chahk, Marian Smith and Shirley Lorenz.

"A hair-raising chiller," juniors call the show, and promise that the show will live up to the name, the "Vampire Bat."

Phyllis Howes, assistant director of the production, will substitute for Beverly Powell, who will be prevented by illness from taking the part.

Other members of the cast are Carol

Kaufman, Darlene Clarkstron, Lillian Knox, Lois Ballou, Jean Martz, Richard Klotz, Donald Anders, George Gee Jr., Louis McKittrick, Allen Schmaedke, and Howard Jackson.

Orland juniors have arranged that wherever one sees a junior one sees the show's box office, where Orlanders and others may secure tickets to the hair-raising episodes to be revealed when the curtain goes up at 8 o'clock—tomorrow evening, April 19. Tickets will be available, also, at the door prior to the going up of the curtain.

The young people sponsoring the show say that the type of play to be presented demands quietness, which means that everyone should be seated before the curtain rises.

GRAIN COMPANY ELEVATOR DESTROYED EARLY TUESDAY MORNING; FIRE AID FROM 6 COMMUNITIES IS REQUIRED

Fire of undetermined origin early Tuesday morning destroyed the elevator of the Frankfort Grain Company in Frankfort.

The fire was in close proximity to other of the company's buildings and alarms were sent out to neighboring towns. Soon nine pieces of fire-fighting apparatus were available to hold the fire against spreading.

Frankfort Elections

VILLAGE ELECTION

Candidates for village trustee numbered five with three to be elected. LeRoy Hansen had 112 votes, Clarence Heisner 144, Fred Weichselberger 167, making these winners over Leo Peterson with 104 votes and Fred Breymeyer with 103.

SCHOOL VOTE

Frankfort school district No. 157 were named at last Saturday's election. Three positions had to be filled, one through resignation of Robert Flagg and another because John Bisbee had moved from the district. Wallace Weichselbrodt's term had expired. Fred Weichselberger was named to a three-year term. Stanley Johnson finishes Mr. Bisbee's unexpired two-year term, and Mr. Weichselbrodt will finish the year remaining of Mr. Flagg's term.

Mokena Elections

Mokena voters elected village trustees and a police magistrate in Tuesday's election. Results of the voting for trustee: Philip Hacker received 93 votes; John P. Marti, 91; George Phelps, 91 and David M. McMillan, 91.

For police magistrate, Rene Guindon had 88 votes, Thomas Powers 1, and Francis O'Brien 2.

Tomorrow evening, (Saturday), a community dance will be given by the New Lenox volunteer fire department in the New Lenox grade school gym, with music by Len Warning orchestra.

HARVEY FRICK ENDS LONG PERIOD OF SERVICE ON ROCK ISLAND ROAD

LEAVES ROCK ISLAND

HARVEY FRICK

Harvey Frick is not "a-working-for-de-rail-a-road," any more. "All de live-long day" he is in business for himself—in the insurance field, that is. And real estate, too.

Harvey Frick is a neighbor to a lot of people far beyond New Lenox, where he lives. He is widely known, which is not strange in view of the fact that he has been with the Rock Island railroad for 10! these many years.

That sounds like Neighbor Harvey is an old man. Really, he is not. He was married in May, 1927; his wife is the former Olive Norton of Hastings, Minn. They have two daughters, one, Joanne, in Mount Pleasant, Iowa college and the other, Joyce, attends Joliet high school.

Mr. Frick has been agent at New Lenox since 1930. Before that time he was agent, second trick in Mokena. It was in Mokena that he studied telegraphy 18 months, at night under John C. Nielsen, a former mayor of Mokena.

He began his railroad work as clerk in the claim department and tariff bureau of the Rock Island, followed by assignment to Mokena. Out of railroad two years, he returned to it in 1918 and remained in employ of the Rock Island until April 1 of this year, having a total of 30 years, 11 months and 15 days in railway service.

Mr. Frick is not entering into a field new to him. He has been engaged in insurance activities for 19 years and has developed a substantial business.

The Fricks live on Haven Avenue, New Lenox.

MOKENA P. T. A. PLANS SPRING FESTIVAL FOR FAMILY NIGHT

Mokena P. T. A. has changed the date of its April meeting to Friday, April 25 to permit the school children to participate in a family night program, at the same time presenting the school's spring festival.

P. T. A. members are urged to be in Mrs. Cappel's room at 7:30 that evening for an important business meeting—and prompt is the word, it was stated. Following this, the evening's program will start at 8 o'clock. The program follows:

Songs, "Only A Dream" and "Little Fairies" Judy Howes, Barbara Martie, Donna Schenkel, Martha Jo Doyle, Ruth Ann Stanger, Phyllis Howes soloist.

"Come Lassies and Lads" will be sung by the 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th grades.

Coronation of May queen: Queen, Kathryn Cooper; attendant, Linda Sue Powers; flower girl, Sheila Bennett, followed by a song, "Villia, by P.T.A. chorus; May pole dance, 1st and 2nd grades; flower and balloon drill, 3rd and 4th grades; daisy chain and song, 5th and 6th grades; Virginia reel dance, 7th and 8th grades.

The P.T.A. chorus will conclude the program.

The program will be followed by a social hour. The public is invited.

Antique, Hobby Show Is Slated for May 1

Th second annual Will county Home Bureau antique and hobby show is slated for May 1 in the Baptist church, Eastern avenue and Clinton street, Joliet, according to announcement by Mrs. Delores Anderson of New Lenox. It is expected that more than the 1,000 attending last year will be present this year.

The general committee consists of Mrs. Phil Goodwin, chairman, Wilmington; Mrs. Byron Haag, Plainfield; Mrs. Earl Keniston, Manhattan; Mrs. George Elmsner, Frankfort; Mrs. Harry Eaton, Elwood; Mrs. Edward McDonald, Joliet; who, with Will county executive board, will meet with two persons from each unit and the antique and hobby chairmen Monday afternoon at 1:30 in Farm Bureau conference room to discuss final plans for the show.

Tickets will be supplied unit chairmen for the show.

Summit Hill Boosters

Tonight, (18th), the Summit Hill Boosters are sponsoring a card and bounce party, with prizes and free refreshments, with a pleasant evening assured.

PASTEURIZATION PROGRAM SHOWN BY BETTENHAUSEN

Pasteurization in the home, instead of use of raw milk, a long-accepted ideal, is to be demonstrated tomorrow (Saturday) in the hardware store of Henry Bettenhausen, Tinley Park.

This has a special appeal to those who do not have access to regular milk routes supplying pasteurized milk, since authorities on the subject emphasize that no milk can be guaranteed free of disease organisms unless it is pasteurized.

AUXILIARY CHARTERED

Frankfort Bobzin-Swinford Legion Post is to have an auxiliary. Womenfolk of Legion members met in the Village hall Wednesday night and organized. Mrs. Pearl Oetter was appointed temporary chairman. Election of officers will be held next Thursday evening in Frankfort village hall at 8 o'clock.

DR. ELMER W. SCHUESSLER RETURNS TO HIS PRACTICE

Dr. Elmer W. Schuessler, dentist, has returned to the practice of his profession after serving with the armed forces. He was serving at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked Dec. 7, 1941. His family was with him there. He is the son of the Rev. Mr. Schuessler, Lutheran pastor in Englewood and widely known throughout this area. Dr. Schuessler published "The Town

Book Club's Library Volumes Reviewed

Mokena Book club announces purchase of several new volumes for use by patrons of the Mokena public library, open Tuesday afternoons and Wednesday evenings. Three of these volumes are reviewed here.

"The Walls of Jericho," by Paul J. Wellman. All the color and violence of the high plains country, emerging from raw frontier days into the present century, are caught in this story of Jericho, Kansas, and of a struggle for power between two of its leading citizens. This personal feud between two men involved the whole town and state, but it especially concerned the dominant women in their lives—the charming, but coldly calculating Algeria, sure of her position among the socially elite; Belle, a weakling ruled by her mother; and the vibrant, high-spirited Julia, who paid a high price for the love she wanted.

In "Lydia Bailey" as in all his novels, Kenneth Roberts' vigorous, intimate style gives the reader the sense of sharing the lives of his characters and of actually living in their own time. Lydia Bailey herself emerges as Kenneth Roberts' most superb woman character. Her romance with Albion is the thread which ties together this magnificent historical novel woven by an author who has never failed to present American history more daringly, accurately, unconventionally than any other writer.

"My Three Years with Eisenhower," by Capt. Harry C. Butcher. This book is a new kind of history, a backstage account of the movements of the most important actors in the greatest drama ever played.

It is a unique combination of intense human interest and grand strategy, providing countless intimate glimpses of the key members of the Allied family, their relations with each other, their private and hitherto unpublished views on the greatest questions of the era, their human failings, and their essential greatness.

"The Egg and I," by Betty MacDonald. It is also on the book shelves.

BOBZIN SWINFORD POST

Bobzin Swinford Post, Legion, Frankfort, this week completing plans for its annual Memorial Day dance in Frankfort school gymnasium, May 30, with music by Roy Gordon's orchestra. Door committee will be Charles Vernon, chairman; Raymond Smith, Robert Mitchell.

At the meeting Eugene Batson resigned as finance officer; appointed to serve for balance of year: James Raffauf.

Kenneth Oetter was named junior baseball chairman to organize baseball plans for the younger fellows.

Committee for April 28 social, Norton Blaylock, Arthur Hurley, George Elmsner.

Poppy day plans were discussed. Date: May 26.

Robert Brock Made T-5

Robert E. Brock, son of John J. Brock of Mokena route 1, recently was promoted to technician fifth grade according to a report received from the Allied command in Rome, Italy. T-5 Brock has been overseas several months.

PROFESSIONAL TINGE TO ADD ZEST TO AMATEUR SHOW TOMORROW NIGHT

Nine members of last Saturday's amateur show cast will contest tomorrow evening (April 19) for $100 in prizes when they appear in the second and concluding amateur show presented by the Tinley Park Recreation Commission.

The show is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock and reserved seats are to be on sale at Cavett's drug store throughout Saturday and at the door prior to the beginning of the show unless previously sold.

Five professional dance and vocal and other entertainment numbers have been added to the program for tomorrow night. Included are the Tinley Park School Glee club, under direction of Mrs. Lee Mager; Carol Jean Martie, prize winner in numerous events; Marion Andres, well-known Tinley Park singer.

Bob Lotz is to be master of ceremonies, and he will do considerable entertaining on his own account, it is stated.

Participants in tomorrow evening's performance coming over from last Saturday's presentation and who will participate in the $100 contest, are Arlene Borms, Janis Claire Marquardt, Frank Wilson, Dorothy Walters, Walter Duffy, Wilbur Rauch, Jerry Hug, Lynne Roberts, Kathleen Olson. Nine prizes will be given.

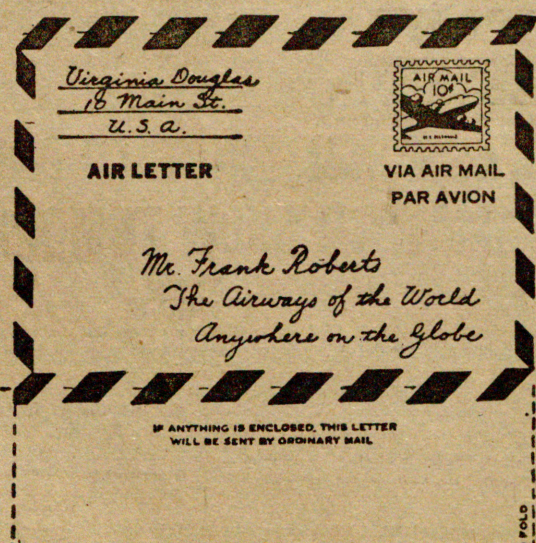

COAST GUARD SCHOOLS AT SEA . . . From the bowsprit of the coast guard cutter Eagle, new training bark for cadets of academy at New London, Conn., the ship exhibits its manifold. The Eagle came from Bremerhaven, Germany, where she was taken over from the defunct German navy. During World War II the ship was the German training vessel for naval officers and was named the Horst Wessel.

SAVED THEIR LIVES . . . Bridget Pugliese, 8, Brooklyn, center, who received an award of $60,000 for injuries she suffered when struck by a trolley car after pushing two playmates to safety, is shown with the two girls she saved. The twins Rose Marie, right, and Jean Gabriel, left, were crossing an intersection when a trolley bore down on them. Bridget rushed to their side and shoved them clear only to be struck down herself.

STEALERS CAUGHT BLACK-HANDED . . . When the body is cold and miserable, the sense of distinction between "mine" and "thine" becomes nonexistent. Small wonder then that in coal-starved Europe the stealing of coal is no longer regarded as reprehensible. Shown here is a raid by women and children on coal cars at a siding near Frankfurt, Germany.

AIR MAIL AROUND THE WORLD . . . The postoffice department has announced that "air letter" service to all foreign countries will be inaugurated April 29. Designed for the purpose of world-wide mailing for 10 cents, the "air letter" sheet is 8½ by 12 inches unfolded, when folded forms an envelope. Messages are written on the inner side of the sheet. If anything is enclosed the letter will be sent by ordinary mail and not by air mail. For safe handling, when anything is enclosed a regulation envelope should be used.

BACHELOR WANTS BRIDE . . . "Uncle Dan" Young, 103, South Bend, Ind., states he is willing to consider matrimony—providing he can find a suitable woman of his own age. The bachelor has lived in the same South Bend house for 65 years.

NEW CHICAGO MAYOR . . . Martin H. Kennelly, Chicago businessman and Democratic candidate who administered decisive defeat to the Republican machine.

FRENCH COUNCIL PRESIDENT . . . Gaston Monnerville, who recently was elected president of the council of the French republic. Monnerville was formerly a member of the French underground during the German occupation and was decorated by General De Gaulle.

ASSUMES THRONE . . . When death struck down King George II of Greece, his 46-year-old brother, Crown Prince Paul, was sworn in as his successor. The two brothers were without Greek blood and are descendants of Britain's Queen Victoria.

BABY WITH TEETH . . . Chubby Paul Strecker, 10 months, has 16 sound and shiny ivories. His Dad, Henry, a Chicago baker, says Paul now tips the scale at 26 pounds, a gain of 16 pounds.

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Education and Training

As of March 1, applications from veterans for education and training under laws administered by the Veterans' administration totaled 5,842,290, VA announced.

Of this number, 5,182,523 had applied for education and training under the G.I. bill and 659,767 for vocational rehabilitation under Public Law 16 for disabled veterans.

In February, for the first time since the program got underway in July, 1944, applications for on-the-job training showed a decrease totalling slightly more than 2,000. School and college courses accounted for 71 per cent of all trainees.

All World War II veterans with 90 days active service and a discharge other than dishonorable are eligible for education and training under the G.I. bill and veterans with less than 90 days service if discharged for service-incurred disability are eligible. The benefits include a calendar year of education plus the equivalent of the time spent in active service between September 16, 1940, and the end of the war, with a maximum of 48 months.

Questions and Answers

Q. I lost a son on Lawson island in 1945. I get his insurance each month, a small check. What I would like to know is, is there any way I can get a lump sum of about $3,000 or $4,000 at once so I could buy a home or farm?—Mrs. M. M., Lubbock, Tex.

A. No, there is no way for you to change the insurance payments unless congress revises the law. A recent revision of the law provided that servicemen could change their insurance policies so beneficiaries could receive lump sums, but this applies only to veterans who change their policies before death. It is possible that you might use these monthly checks as collateral for the loan of a lump sum in order to purchase a home or a farm.

Q. We would like to get our son out of the army. We signed his papers but since his enlistment we have suffered financial reverses and his father is seriously ill. The boy is needed here at home much more, I am sure, than he is needed in the army. Can you tell us what to do?—Mrs. A. N. C., Ocala, Fla.

A. Your best bet is for your son to tell his immediate commanding officer, his personnel officer and his chaplain of the conditions at home and if he can prove what is called a hardship or dependency case, there is a chance he may be released. Since in many cases the army asks the Red Cross to investigate such cases, it might be well for you to contact your local Red Cross and enlist their aid for a report which they can send to your son's commanding officer to back up his story.

Q. Are members of the WAC eligible to take a course in vocational rehabilitation?—Mrs. J. D., McAlester, Okla.

A. Yes, since they were made a part of the U. S. army under Public Law 110.

Q. Is there any provision for legal aid at the expense of the government if a veteran is not getting what's coming to him?—A. J. R., Norfolk, Va.

A. There is no law which provides that the government shall pay for the services of a lawyer in behalf of any veteran. However, if a veteran considers the services of a lawyer necessary and he is not inclined to retain a personal attorney, it may be borne in mind that associated with each selective service system local board, there is an advisory board for registrants, which may have one or more lawyers in its membership. In many communities the American Legion, Amvets and Veterans of Foreign Wars provide free legal service for veterans and also in many communities there is a local bar committee on war work for veterans. The American Bar association has assisted in organization of such local committees to provide for legal assistance to members and veterans of the armed forces and their dependents. State bar associations also have provided similar committees.

Q. I am a widow of a World War II marine. I received government insurance up until I recently remarried. Since then I have not received my monthly payment or any word. Is it possible payments are discontinued at the time of a widow's remarriage?—Mrs. R. T. C., Daytona Beach, Fla.

A. Your remarriage should have no effect on your veteran husband's insurance and you should continue to receive it. Suggest you write to the Insurance Division of the Veterans' Administration, Washington 6, D. C.

Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

DREW PEARSON

BY-PASSING UNITED NATIONS
WASHINGTON. — The more the diplomatic corps scrutinizes the Truman doctrine for Greece and Turkey, the more its members are inclined to think the USA made a historic mistake in by-passing the United Nations.

This is the conclusion of friendly disposed diplomats, many of them Latin Americans, whose future is tied up with the peace and prosperity of this country. While they recognize the need for speed, they are convinced that President Truman should have placed all the facts before the United Nations at the very start, not as an afterthought. They also fear the USA established a precedent that may boomerang. Two cases are cited to prove their point.

1. Suppose the situation is reversed and Russia wants to apply the Truman doctrine to Latin America. She now has an excellent excuse for by-passing the United Nations.

To be more specific, Nicaragua and Panama are the two Latin American nations corresponding to Greece and Turkey. Panama, like Turkey, is on both sides of a waterway just as vital to the USA as the Dardanelles to the USSR. Nicaragua, alongside Panama, could control the Panama canal, just as any nation controlling Greece could control the Dardanelles.

It is no secret that Russian agents have been extremely active in parts of Latin America, and the day may come when Communist governments in one or more of these countries will appeal to Russia for help against the USA. As sovereign nations they could argue, just as do Turkey and Greece, that they have a right to get help from whomever they please—by-passing the United Nations.

In such a case, Russia would have the precedent of the Truman doctrine and could argue that what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. According to this doctrine, Russia would have the right to send military equipment to Panama and Nicaragua regardless of our opposition.

This illustration may appear far-fetched. But diplomats point out that already Chile, where the Communist party holds the balance of power, is signing a trade pact with Russia.

2. As a reverse illustration of what the United Nations can do to stop aggression, diplomats point to the case of Iran. This was the greatest victory so far achieved by the United Nations, and came just as the security council got on its first wobbly legs, with the world watching to see whether it could really walk.

Iran, to Russia, is one of the most strategic areas in the world, second only to the Dardanelles. Sitting astride the Gulf of Persia and an outlet to a warm-water port, Iran is just as important as the ports of Manchuria.

In Iran, Russia was trying to do what she is now trying to do in Greece—set up a Communist government friendly to the USSR. However, strong factions in the Iranian government were opposed and appealed to the United Nations.

The United Nations had no police force, no international inspectors, no international organization to speak of. It had only the force of public opinion. Yet its emphatic stand stopped Russia in its tracks. The boys in the Kremlin scarcely knew what had hit them. They complained to high heaven, but the United Nations stood firm and won a great victory.

That victory, according to the diplomatic view, now has been nullified by the Truman doctrine. If Truman had sent a note to the United Nations simultaneously with his message to congress explaining his contemplated Greco-Turkish action and asking long-range U. N. cooperation he might have taken off part of the curse. Instead, he went fishing.

COMMUNIST STRATEGY

Investigators for the house un-American activities committee have learned of a new, secret strategy by which high Communist officials hope to avoid disloyalty prosecution. Here is their formula:

All key Communists called to testify by the committee will refuse to do so on the grounds that the committee is unconstitutionally constituted. This means that the Communist officials will merely be cited for contempt of congress—which lets them off easy.

The un-American committee, however, isn't going to let them get away with it. Every one of the top Communists, including Hans Eisler, Leon Josephson and Eugene Dennis—real head of the American party—has used this angle. Significantly, each also is involved in passport frauds.

Accordingly, the committee and the justice department now are working up a major passport conspiracy case against a dozen top Communist officials, all of whom will be brought to trial swiftly. In other words, the administration plans to pull the strangest fangs from the American Communist conspiracy.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

MILES NERVINE

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Julia McFarlane, whose husband, Richard, disappeared in World War I, leaving her to raise two children, Ric and Jill, is startled when 25 years later, during the second war, he returns and tells her he is using the name of Captain Mackey. Ric marries Sandra Calvert, a divorcee whom Richard knew to be of bad reputation. She arrives at the farm to live and recognizes a picture of Richard as that of Mackey. She and Jill quarrel and she demands $10,000. That night Captain Mackey arrives, telling Jill, who does not know who he is, that he is taking Sandra to Ric. He tells Jill about the daughter he lost and she tells him about her father. Sandra refuses to leave with him.

CHAPTER XX

"All right," she snapped, harshly, "what's the payoff? There is one, I suppose? You didn't come here out of the goodness of your heart, Rod Mackey!"

He looked at Jill and smiled one-sidedly.

"She doesn't trust me!" he drawled. "She thinks there's a catch in it."

"Maybe she has had some disillusioning experiences," Jill said. "It could be that she hasn't always known the right sort of people."

"Never mind the kind of people I've known!" Sandra cried, hoarsely. "At least no tricky heel has ever fooled me yet. Just tell me the gag, that's all. I hate blundering into things. I suppose the Gestapo has been abroad, and right now is the dramatic moment to produce the fatal papers? If you'd only given me one more day, Rod Mackey! One more day, and a very elaborate military reputation might have gone crashing down in some very dirty ruins! But you knew I wouldn't have had time to prove anything, didn't you? You worked fast!"

"What on earth is she talking about?" Jill demanded of the captain, her eyes bewildered.

"She's displeased with me, Jill," he said, blandly. "I happen to know a few facts about a divorce our Sandra once got in a little smelly town called Piedras Negras, in Mexico. Back in 1927, I think, wasn't it, Sandra? Or was it '29? She bought the divorce cheap, the way you buy things in Mexico, cheap stuff you wouldn't look at in this country, and she didn't look too carefully at the divorce. And of course after she married Lieutenant Colonel Calvert, and then collected considerable alimony from him, and now that she's married into the McFarlane family, she'd like to forget the divorce and never hear anything about it again."

"You mean—the divorce wasn't any good?" Jill asked. "But if it wasn't—"

"He doesn't know a thing about it!" snapped Sandra. "He's bluffing. Trying to force me to do what he wants me to do."

"Unfortunately for you, my dear girl, I'm not bluffing. I have, to quote you, the fatal papers. Now, if you don't mind, I'd like to get started. I'm still in the army, I'm still under command. And it's getting late."

"All right, I'll go," she said, "but not with you. You can take me as far as a bus station. Well, you can relax now, Jill. I'm taking my obnoxious person out of your house. You won't be degraded any more. You—you poor, blind little fool!"

She whirled away and went pounding up the stairs. Jill sat down abruptly. She was feeling weak and queer as though she had just watched something die.

"I—wish you'd stay until Mother gets here," she said, faintly. "She'll be disappointed at not seeing you. And—is it true about Sandra's divorce? That it wasn't legal or something?"

"Her name happens not to be Sandra," the captain said. "Her name was Hattie Schoeffle when she was married to a boy named Bordine, in Kearney, Nebraska. Then she tired of him and got into vaudeville, and after that into vaudeville, and a few years ago she showed up in San Antonio and attracted a young Major Calvert, who wanted to marry her. So she got this quick divorce in Mexico and didn't bother to discover that the official who signed it hadn't taken his oath of office yet, or remember that she'd been married as Hattie Schoeffle, and divorced as Sandra Laverne—mere legal details but quite important."

"I'm glad," Jill said. "It's a nasty thing to say, but I'm glad."

"Will you give your mother a message from me, Jill?"

"Of course. But they should be here any minute."

"A soldier's time is not his own, you know. But you can tell your mother not to worry about Richard. I think he'll come through this business all right. I think he has good stuff in him, in fact I'm sure of it. He's his mother's son."

An Old Beau

Came to Call

"I'll tell her. But what shall I tell Mother about you?"

He smiled, slowly, and that same look of far places, of things long remembered, of bewildered loss came again into his eyes. He reached for Jill's hand and held it.

"Just tell her that an old beau came to call," he said, striving for lightness. "One of her dangle adorners—she used to collect them the way a honeysuckle gathers bees. Just remember that, Jill, if she gets tough on you. You tell her that one of her last lovers came—in fact I believe I was the last."

"Before my father, of course. I'll tell her, Captain Mackey. I'll tell her that her last lover came to call. And I do thank you for concerning yourself with our family problems. I know that my mother would like to thank you, too."

"Just give me a kind thought now and then, will you, Jill? I'll need it, where I'm going." He heard Sandra's feet on the stairs and bent down quickly and kissed Jill on the cheek. "That's for my own daughter," he said, huskily.

Jill stretched herself quickly on tiptoe and drew his head down and kissed him on the mouth.

"And that," she whispered, "is for my father! Good-by, Captain Mackey."

Sandra came, dragging her bag down, looking small and somehow

"And that"—she whispered, "is for my father."

frightened. She said, "Well, good-by, Jill. I suppose this makes you very happy indeed."

"No," Jill shook her head. "No. It doesn't. It makes me a little sick, Sandra, if you want the truth. I don't like you very much, but I hate having it end this way. Good luck, anyway. And good-by again, Captain Mackey."

"I may write to you soon—I may have something to tell you," Sandra said grimly.

Captain Mackey picked up her bag and took her arm brusquely and hurried her out. At the door he turned and looked back at Jill, a long look. Then he flicked a little salute—the same gesture that Spang made—and went out.

Jill sat limp and shaken when the car had roared off down the drive. She wondered what would happen to Sandra now. But women like Sandra always got along. They knew their way about. She stopped bothering about Sandra then, for Dave's car had turned in at the gate, and she heard voices—two men's voices—it couldn't be—

She flew to the door and across the porch. They were getting out of the car, and Dave grinned at her and said, "Here's a dirty looking tramp we found downtown, Jill. He was asking the police how to get out to Buzzard's Hill, so we just brought him along. Ever seen him before?"

Reunion With

Spang Gordon

Jill gave a choking little cry and flung herself at the tall figure in the greasy flying jacket.

"Spang!"

He caught her and held her tight. He kissed her gravely on the mouth.

"Pure dumb luck!" he said. "Just a routine flight—my navigator had to get some more hours in the air, and right over this town the doggone oil line busted! Glad to see me, Jill?"

"Oh, Spang!" She shivered happily. "You did come back!"

"How about turning the man loose so he can wash his face?" Dave teased. "You've got grease on your chin and your nose, too, Jill."

"I know Spang must be tired and hungry," Julia said. "I'll see what can be found in the kitchen. Get some clean towels, Jill."

Jill led Spang upstairs to the bathroom.

"Sorry I'm such a mess," he said, pulling off the oil-soaked flight jacket, "but I worked an hour on that line before I gave up and decided we had to wire for some spare parts—lucky they had that little landing field out there, wasn't it?"

"Awfully lucky you didn't have some spare parts along, too, wasn't it, Spang? Or you'd have had to fix whatever it was and go on."

"Be noon tomorrow or maybe later before we can finish repairs. Depends on how fast they get the stuff to us. So I divided the gang up as watches for the plane, and the rest of us struck out for town, and just as I was asking that sleepy cop down there on the main corner where a place called Buzzard's Hill was, there were your mother and Mr. Patterson pulling out of a parking spot, and the cop took me over to the car. Talk about my lucky star! Here I am!"

"And we have twelve hours, anyway," Jill said happily. "Come down when you're ready, Spang. Mother's getting something for you to eat."

They sat around the kitchen table while Spang devoured scrambled eggs and warmed-over biscuit.

"If the C.O. could see me now," he said, "he'd swear I smashed that oil line on purpose! He'd give me a long lecture and remind me of those fellows on the other side who bring the big babies in on two engines and one of those on fire, and all that stuff."

"You didn't have the English Channel under you," Dave said.

"Oh, I'd put up the routine argument. I was trying to save an expensive plane and an expensively trained crew for the air corps. They concede that you're right, usually, but they have to get you on the defensive first, just to see if you've got the spirit to defend your decisions, probably. Is there one more drop of coffee in that pot, Mrs. McFarlane?"

"I'll squeeze the handle hard," Julia smiled at him. Then she looked unhappily at Jill. "We're frightfully rude," she said. "Jill, we should have asked Sandra to come down."

"Sandra?" Spang repeated sharply. "Sandra Calvert? She's here?"

"She was married to Richard," Julia said. "She came today, or I guess it's yesterday now. Ric was shipped off somewhere and he sent her home to us."

Spang was looking at Jill with a troubled face, but Jill had jumped up and stood frozen with consternation.

"Dooley!" she cried. "I was so excited over seeing Spang that I forgot to tell you! Sandra's gone!"

"Gone?" Julia repeated incredulously. "Jill, you weren't—you didn't—"

"I didn't do anything," Jill insisted. "She got rather nasty after you left, and we exchanged a few acid remarks, but nothing was serious. Then suddenly this officer came for her. He is a captain at Ridley Field, Dooley, and it seems he knew Sandra in Hawaii and other places. I met him when I went down there. He said he used to know you, Dooley. His name was Captain Roger Mackey."

Julia gripped the edge of the table. She would not let her legs crumple under her, she would not let herself cry out.

Spang said, "Old Cyanide! So he came here, did he?"

"You know him, do you?" Dave asked, moving around the table to draw the younger eyes away from Julia while she got hold of herself.

"Yes, sir, he was a personnel officer at the field. Not very popular with the men, when I was there."

"He said at first he was going to take Sandra to Ric," Jill explained, "and then when she refused to go, he sprang some Mexican divorce she'd had on her—it seems Ric was her third husband, Dooley—and this Captain Mackey said he was quite sure the Mexican divorce wasn't legal and that she wasn't married to Ric at all. She was pretty badly frightened, I could see. She tried to keep Captain Mackey quiet with some vague threats or other, but he made her go. I'm so sorry you weren't here, Dooley. He said he was an old beau of yours."

She said anxiously, "Aren't you pleased, Dooley? I thought you'd be relieved to find she wasn't here any more."

"Yes, I'm pleased," she said, faintly, "but I'm sorry Sandra went away when I was not here at least to say good-by."

"Odd that Mackey concerned himself about Ric," Spang said. "May be, of course, that he was somehow involved with the Calvert woman."

Dooley Receives

A Message

"Oh, no!" Jill protested quickly. "He isn't that sort of person, Spang. Not that sort at all. And Sandra hated him. She told me so. She didn't really want to go with him. I got the feeling that she was somehow scared. I think he knew more about her than he told me. He left a message for you, Dooley. He said to tell you that you weren't to worry about Ric, that Ric was going to be all right. He talked about his daughter that he lost, and I told him about my father, and then he said I was to tell you that your 'last lover' came, Dooley. He said he was quite sure he was the last—before my father, of course. Dooley, you look funny. Don't you feel well?"

"Too many things have happened to Dooley all at once," Dave said patting her shoulder.

Preserve Leaves

Autumn leaves make splendid holiday decorations. To preserve them, press with a warm iron to preserve the color. Then soak the leaves in a solution of one part glycerine to 9 parts water. When thoroughly soaked, remove from solution and press between blotters. The leaves will remain flexible forever, and may be glued to branches where leaves are gone, or used in table decorations.

Blanching Peanuts

To blanch almonds or raw peanuts for roasting, pour boiling water over them and hold at simmering temperature (185 degrees) for three minutes. Drain and slip off loose skins by pressing the kernel between thumb and forefinger. Spread the blanched kernels on absorbent paper and dry overnight at ordinary room temperature.

New Dyeing

It wasn't until 1856 that dyeing began to be released from its dependency upon vegetables and mineral sources. In that year, an English student, named William Henry Perkin, discovered that aniline derived from coal tar could be chemically treated to produce beautiful and lasting colors.

Highway Safety

When walking along the road at night, wear something white or carry a light so motorists will see you easily. If it is necessary to travel along the highway in a wagon at night, display a light that can be seen plainly from both directions.

Porous Flat

The flat for planting small flower seed should have plenty of holes or cracks in the bottom to allow water to pass freely through the soil. Thorough drainage is very important, as sour, water-logged soil is fatal to most young garden plants.

Aluminum Windows

Aluminum windows for residences are now in production. The new windows are said to lift and lower with an easy, effortless mo-

Cows Like Comfort

Trials at the department of agriculture field station in Huntley, Mont., indicate dairy cows produce more milk when kept in a pen barn than when confined in stanchions. Pen barns require more bedding than is used with cows in stanchions but less cleaning is needed in the pen barn. The milk increase in pen barns was accredited to more comfort for cows.

U. S. Cropland

The United States has about 460 million acres available for cropping. This total includes in addition to that already in crops, some 100 million acres in need of drainage, irrigation, clearing and other improvements. All but 70 million acres of the 460 million acres is subject to erosion if it is not protected by soil conserving measures.

Holiday Delicacy

For a holiday delicacy, home-salted nuts may be relatively inexpensive, and, if prepared by trying-pan roasting, require the minimum of fat. Although frying in deep fat generally is considered to give the best flavor to many nuts, roasting in a little fat in the frying pan also produces delicious taste.

Growing Calf

The amount of salable milk required to grow out a calf can be reduced by using skim milk which has been fortified with energy-rich feed. The calf should nurse the cow for three days. It then can be fed skim milk at the rate of one pound of milk for each 10 pounds of body weight up to an age of 45 to 60 days.

Grand Crown

The imperial state crown, made for Queen Victoria in 1838, is the most valuable crown in the world. It contains a ruby as large as a small hen's egg, a diamond weighing 308 carats and more than 2,500 smaller diamonds, in addition to emeralds, sapphires and pearls.

Turkey Bruises

A turkey bruises easily, and must be handled carefully to prevent bruised or discolored spots. Whether you dress your turkey or buy it dressed, you don't want the skin torn. So if a tear does occur, be sure to sew it up before you roast the bird.

Treat Matches

As a precaution against fire, match sticks are treated with ammonium phosphate to prevent lingering embers after the flame has blown out.

MARLEY

By MRS. LOREN SASS

IN MEMORIAM

SPIECKER—Pfc. Frank. In loving memory of our dear son and brother who was killed 3 years ago April 17.

In memory, a daily thought,
In our hearts, a silent sorrow.
MOTHER, DAD, SISTERS AND BROTHERS.

The Marley Woman's club met last Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Clayton Cleveland. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Mary Marshall and Mrs. A. J. Cleveland. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Loren Sass. Mrs. Edw. Sproat led in the singing of America and Mrs. John Riley led the group in the pledge to the flag. Roll call was answered by each member reading a household hint. The Will County Club League tri-annual will be held in the Manhattan Methodist church Tuesday April 29. Father Weir will speak on "Delinquency" and Mrs. Balch of Joliet will give a book review. The ladies of the church will serve a 75 cent luncheon. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Loren Sass before April 23.

After routine reports, the program was presented by Mrs. Everett Bell. The opening number was a group song, "Little Brown Church in the Vale," led by Mrs. Sproat. Easter devotionals were given by Mrs. Walter Haas. Mrs. Wilbur Cearfoss told "The Meaning of Easter." Mrs. Sproat gave an article,

"The Personality of Jesus." An article "In The Wonder World of Birds" by Mrs. Sass, concluded the program.

There will be a white elephant sale at the May meeting in the home of Mrs. Rofal Corp.

Rural school elections were held Saturday night with the following results in the local schools: Fred Lauffer in the Lauffer district; Mrs. Cayton Cleveland, Marley district; George Williams, Maple street district and Herman Benck, Hadley district.

Mary Lou Smith, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital. She is much improved from an attack of bronchitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bridge and family spent Sunday evening with Mrs. G. W. Bush in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tambourine near Elwood.

Pfc. Ralph Spiecker arrived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spiecker, Friday. He is on terminal leave until May 1, when he will be discharged from the army. He has been in service for one year and for the past several months has been stationed in Tokyo.

Mrs. Arthur Lauffer, Mrs. Henry Anderson and Mrs. Russell Lauffer attended a Key paper demonstration in the Maue school Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Riley and Mrs. John Riley Sr. were entertained at dinner Sunday in the home of Mrs. Sarah Moran at Elwood.

Miss Kate Haas has returned to her home after spending several days in the home of her sister, Mrs. Lee Mathias in Chicago.

Miss Caroline Tilsy and Miss Helen Tilsy were supper guests Saturday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tilsy and helped the latter to celebrate her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Huising and son Don of Fairmont were Sunday guests of Mrs. Minnie Blodgett.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Eberhardt and family have moved into their new home on Willow street.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bell and sons Bob and Harold and Pfc. Ralph Spiecker were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Larson in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carlson and sons of Joliet were visitors Sunday in the home of Mrs. Madge Storm.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Storm of DeKalb, spent a few days last week in the home of Mrs. C. F. Haley.

Word comes from Kent, Wash., telling of the death of Warren Harper April 9. He was a former Mokena resident and will be remembered by many Marley friends.

Mrs. Mary Marshall and Mrs. A. J. Cleveland attended the Wednesday afternoon bunco club in the home of Agnes and Janet Weir in Worth.

Thursday night, Mr. Howard Locke of Hammond, Ind., was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sproat.

D. L. Crandall of Chicago was a guest Monday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sproat.

Mr. and Mrs. George Yapp spent Sunday evening with relatives in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Harmon of Elgin were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Lynk.

Mrs. A. J. Cleveland is spending this week in the C. B. Rubens home; Joliet.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Malnar attended a league ball game in Chicago Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cutler and sons of Plainwell, Mich., were week end guests of Mrs. Madge Storm and Mrs. Louise Cutler.

Howard Graening, who was recently discharged from the army at Lowrey Field, Colo., spent Wednesday with his sister, Mrs. Robert Sproat.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kercheval of Ypsilanti, Michigan were guests Sunday in the A. R. Kercheval home.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A Great Bunch
—Those Ex-G.I.'s

Willie Wells and a bunch of the boys from our town went to Pound Ridge Saturday to a reunion of their old regiment.

There were about two hundred and fifty boys who came from miles around to a good old feast in Farmer Collins' barn. I expect they seemed a lot different to each other out of uniform. But they had a great time, spinning yarns, drinking beer, and talking over the old times in South Africa and Italy and the Aleutians.

I went over to cover the meeting for the Clarion, and one thing that sure impressed me was the good behavior of those boys—their preference for a moderate beverage like beer—their friendly spirit.

From where I sit, our ex-G.I.'s are making as good a showing in peacetime as they made during the war. And they're setting a mighty good example to the rest of us—in tolerance, and moderation, and good fellowship.

Are You Satisfied with Your House?

Read These Questions and Answers

Q

MY HOME IS A FRAME BUILDING. IT IS COMFORTABLE BUT IS WEARING OUT ON THE OUTSIDE. SHALL I PAINT IT OR PUT SIDING ON IT?

A

Some buildings look better painted, others show up fine with the modern sidings that IMPERIAL has. If it would look well with siding you are probably better off for our new Johns-Manville siding is fireproof, dirt resisting, insulating, colorful. It lasts forever.

Q

MY HOUSE IS IN GOOD CONDITION AND SOLID BUT IT WAS BUILT IN 1910. IT HAS NO ARCHITECTURE ACCORDING TO TODAY'S STANDARDS.

A

Don't move until you have seen what IMPERIAL can do at very low cost. We've changed hundreds of buildings around so that the owners themselves could not recognize them. A little different size window here, a smaller porch there, perhaps a canopy over the door, can make all the difference in the world

THE JUDGE'S VERDICT

The jury had just brought in a verdict of acquittal in a murder trial. The judge frowned, adjusted his robe, and snapped: "What possible reason can this jury have?"
The foreman responded: "Insanity, Your Honor."
The judge leaned forward: "All twelve of you?"

LOWLY HIGHBROWS

Housewife: "Why should a big, strong man like you be out begging?"
Hobo: "Well, lady, it's the only profession I know in which a gentleman can address a beautiful woman like you without an introduction."

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO THOSE CONSIDERING GAS HEATING

NO GAS IS AVAILABLE FOR ADDITIONAL SPACE HEATING

Early in 1945, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois foresaw its need for substantially greater quantities of natural gas. It applied to the pipe line companies which transmit gas from the Texas fields to this area, to increase their facilities and supply it with more gas. The pipe line companies, acting upon that request, ordered steel pipe to expand their systems even before they were granted the required federal regulatory authorization.

Expected delivery of this pipe has been prevented by a nation-wide shortage of steel. Even though the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois and the pipe line companies have done everything within their power, necessary expansion of the pipe line system has not been completed. Therefore the Company regrets that it has been obliged to impose these restrictions limiting the addition of gas heating customers:

1. No additional residential space heating (except those homes not yet connected that qualified for service July 16, 1946) until such time as additional gas becomes available.
2. No additional commercial or industrial space heating.

To protect the supply of gas to present customers, violators face discontinuance of all gas service.

The Company at all times considers as its first obligation the continuance of service to residential customers and for essential community needs. It will protect this service in every way possible.

Rufe's Ramblings

By Rufe Pickett

For years and years George Carrio has been a business man in Windy Mountain. In one of the first transactions I ever knew him to make he lost money—or at least I thought he had, but he just said, "Never mind, I'll get it back some day." I had completely forgotten about the incident till the last time I was down home and heard him auction off the old Gallimore place. Knowing something of the circumstances I congratulated him on his deal, and he sez to me, "When I bought that old run-down, overgrown shack way back yonder everybody said I would never get my money out of it. The house kept getting more and more in need of repairs and I had begun to think everybody was right about it till I happened to call to mind the time you bought the top and cord from me and I dropped the nickle and it rolled through a crack in the plank sidewalk. You thought my money was gone too, but while you were not looking I slipped twenty cents more into the same place and for a quarter I would have torn up the whole sidewalk."

Orland Methodist church officers will be elected at a meeting at the church set for 8 o'clock Monday evening, April 21. Business relating to Orland Park Memorial cemetery will be considered.

The WSCS of the Methodist church will meet for an all-day session on Thursday, April 24 at the home of Mrs. Everett Creer. Each person attending will bring a sandwich, the hostess committee will serve coffee and dessert at noon. As this is the last meeting before the supper, it is hoped that all members will try to attend. Those desiring transportation will meet at the church at 10:15 Thursday morning.

Laurel Camp 1796 RNA will hold its regular meeting at 8 o'clock Thursday evening April 24 in the home of Mrs. Olive Loebe. Members are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served by the hostess committee, Olive Loebe and Lillian Knox.

Mrs. Thomas Cooper underwent an operation last Saturday morning at Silver Cross hospital. Mrs. Cooper is convalescing nicely and expects to return home in about two weeks. Mr. Cooper and daughters Lila and Eleanor an dher husband, Don Meyers of Aurora visited her Sunday.

Frank Cooper left last week to visit relatives in Iowa and Rockford. He will return in two weeks.

Mrs. Elsie Paulson, music teacher in the Orland schools, attended the Music educational national conference at Indianapolis, last Friday.

Mrs. Mary Townsend, home economics teacher, attended the Illinois Vocational Association meeting at Peoria, last Friday.

Mrs. Ray Doctor, who has been ill with the flu the past two weeks, is on the mend and hopes to be up soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wood have returned from a long vacation in California.

The regular meeting of the Legion Auxiliary unit No. 526, Orland Park, was held in the school library last Friday evening. The unit plans to send a girl to Girl State. Some of the members plan to assist at the bingo party sponsored by the 8th district to be held at 2 o'clock Saturday, April 19 at Vaughan's hospital. Mrs. Ethelyn Mehren, district rehabilitation chairman, spoke on the rehabilitation program carried out at veteran hospitals. Mrs. Evelyn Reeve, district director, spoke on the district work and complimented Orland unit for the marked increase in membership and also the work carried on in the hospitals and projects of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Alice Sorley read an article on Columbia and the Pan American countries and menus. After the program the birthday song was sung for Mollie Reish; Verna Farr; and Anna Mae Butler who had birthdays in April and served as hostesses. Delicious cakes and coffee and ice cream cups were served.

The Ladies' Aid of Christ Lutheran church held its birthday group potluck meeting last Thursday afternoon in the church school house. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock.

The Orland township Home bureau will meet Friday evening, April 18, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Anna Graf, who lives half mile west of Wolf road on 159th street. The major lesson, on "landscaping" will be presented by Mrs. Claradell Upham, Cook county home advisor.

Mrs. A. Graf will be in charge of the evening's recreation and Mrs. Charles Erickson and Mrs. Graf will be hostesses.

The landscaping lesson should be a most important one to ladies who are beginning spring gardening. Guests will be welcomed, as usual, at this meeting.

The paper party given by the Orland Home bureau unit at the Maue school Friday, April 11, was well attended. All ladies present enjoyed seeing and hearing about the useful and durable paper products Mrs. Olsen showed.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Anthony Tuetsmacher, Mrs. Charles Erickson and Mrs. George Sayers.

We thank every one present for cooperation in helping make this party a success. Refreshments were served by the unit.

ONE UNIT HEATS AND COOLS

Underground pipes and a well to provide summer coolness and winter warmth by a single unit are planned for homebuilders of two Indiana manufacturers.

Admittedly costlier than oil or coal, the manufacturers point out that it will save the price of a chimney and provide additional summer comfort.

Bi-Partisan Sessions Engender Good Will Among Legislators

(Editor's Note: This is the last in a series of articles dealing with new congressional committees and their chairmen.)

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON.—Faced with the first Republican congress in 16 years, President Truman has instituted a series of bi-partisan meetings of congressional leaders during the 80th congress as a means of creating good will. The President's strategy has proved effective in promoting cooperation between the executive and legislative branches of the government.

At the meetings, which are an innovation of Mr. Truman's and not called for under terms of the reorganization act, the President gives an off-the-record view of pending controversial legislation. GOP congressional leaders, of course, are not bound to carry out any of the proposals discussed.

Carrying out his announced purpose of calling the conferences at periodic intervals whenever the White House deemed it advisable, Mr. Truman has resorted to the bi-partisan meetings several times during the present congress.

This article concludes the series on the congressional committees, winding up with the speaker of the house and the majority leader:

Public Works

GEORGE A. DONDERO (MICH.) heads the public works committee which takes over functions of the former committees on flood control, public buildings and grounds, rivers and harbors and roads.

Dondero, who has been ranking Republican on the rivers and harbors committee, was a s active in the debate on the 420 million dollar rivers and harbors authorization bill of 1946, from which he succeeded in eliminating the Big Sandy river project in Kentucky and West Virginia and a senate increase in funds for the Arkansas river project. Dondero was one of five representatives to introduce bills for a St. Lawrence seaway, none of which was reported by the committee.

Dondero, who is 63, has practiced law since 1910 in Royal Oak, Mich. He held various city offices from 1905 until 1932, when he was elected to congress. He also was prosecuting attorney for Oakland county in 1918-19.

The 17th Michigan district, which Dondero represents, includes part of the city of Detroit and of adjoining Oakland county. It is heavily industrialized, and the CIO Auto Workers union has considerable strength. Dondero, however, has been outspoken in his opposition to CIO-PAC and to alleged Communist domination of labor unions.

Speaker of House

JOSEPH W. MARTIN JR. (MASS.), new speaker of the house, has been active in Republican politics since he was elected to the Massachusetts legislature in 1912.

A former chairman of the Republican national committee, Martin has been in congress since 1924, and ranks eighth in seniority among Republicans in the house. He is 62 years old, publisher of the North Attleboro Evening Chronicle, and also proprietor of an insurance company.

As minority leader in the house since 1939, Martin has been able to keep his party in line in opposition to most of the administration's policies. But although six Republicans are recorded as voting with the majority of their party 100 per cent of the time on recent controversial roll calls, Martin sometimes has a split with his party and voted with it only 85 per cent of the time. One of these times was when he voted to override the presidential veto of the price control bill last summer. Martin also voted to override vetoes of the Case labor bill and the bill renouncing federal claims to tidewater lands.

On foreign policy, Martin in recent years has followed his colleague, Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.), in supporting the policy of international cooperation. In the early days of the Roosevelt administration, Martin went straight down the line against New Deal measures.

An advocate of economy in government, Martin has endorsed GOP plans to cut personal income taxes and to balance the budget. He opposes universal military training and introduced a resolution in the last congress in favor of the United States taking the initiative in a move towards world disarmament.

Martin's district (the 14th Massachusetts) includes Bristol county and parts of Norfolk, Worcester and Middlesex counties in the east central part of the state.

Organized labor has considerable strength in the district. However, the backing of several unions as well as the PAC failed to help Martin's opponent in the 1946 election, and he continued to increase his plurality as he has for several years.

When he was minority leader, Martin had no committee assignment and, of course, continues to have none as speaker.

Majority Leader

CHARLES A. HALLECK (IND.), majority leader of house Republicans, was unanimously elected to his job after several other candidates withdrew in the interests of harmony. Halleck's candidacy for the job previously had been endorsed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Halleck is one of six Republicans who voted with the majority of their party on 100 per cent of controversial roll calls in closing months of the 79th congress. Halleck has not been particularly active in floor debate. However, in the 79th congress, he spoke against the anti-Petrillo bill as written, although he voted for it after his own amendment was defeated.

Halleck was born in Jasper county, Ind., in 1900, and has lived there all his life. After service in World War I he received a law degree from Indiana university and began practice in Rensselaer, where he now lives. He served five terms as circuit prosecuting attorney and was elected to congress at a special election in 1935. Halleck's 12 years' service makes him one of the youngest members of the Republican leadership from the point of view of seniority.

Halleck's district (the second Indiana) spreads over 12 counties in northwestern Indiana and had a population in 1940 of 253,952. It is primarily rural and agricultural.

Halleck was chairman of the national Republican congressional committee, working for the election of Republicans to congress, during the campaign last year.

Odd Traffic Signal On Rural Highway Prevents Mishaps

NATURAL BRIDGE, VA.—Situating on a stretch of highway in a strictly rural area and far remote from any intersection, a red traffic light amazes motorists speeding north over Highway 11 through Virginia's Shenandoah valley.

The light warns of the approach to the 90-foot span of the Natural Bridge of Virginia across a 215-foot gorge. Just before crossing the natural span, the highway twists sharply on a steep downgrade to present a dangerous traffic menace.

The light was erected two years ago after a series of serious mishaps. The result, highway department engineers contend, has been "highly satisfactory"—no smashups at a point where there had been 28 in 10 years, with 12 fatalities and injuries to 53 others.

If the motorist approaches the light at a speed greater than 25 miles per hour, it flashes red. Moreover, the light won't turn green until the driver slows down. If the motorist doesn't slow, he will have to stop at the red light, but when he does stop, the light flashes green.

The light is controlled by a complicated sequence of electronics, rigged with underground wires to a detector arm imbedded in the highway 280 feet from the light.

Elated over success of the rural blinker, the highway department is planning to install similar lights at other danger zones.

'On the Seventh Day They Rested'

MADISON, CALIF.—People the country over bemoaned the housing shortage—but the Clarks came from Missouri. They bought a vacant lot, worked six days and on the seventh put the finishing touches on their modern cottage home.

Otis Clark, who needed living accommodations for his family, called on his uncle, Noah Clark, of nearby Winters, for help. The two poured a foundation for a new home. Then Otis toured all lumber yards and hardware stores from Sacramento to Woodland, from Winters to Madison, and other communities in the area for lumber and building supplies. In the meantime, Noah hammered and sawed. Eight days later the Otis Clark family moved into their completed home. "You can't let grass grow under your feet," Noah insisted in commenting on the speedy project.

Big Labor Savings By Modern Methods

Improved Machinery Has Resulted in Profit Gain

The modern wheat farmer's labor is 14 times as productive as that of his great-grandfather.

Figures presented in the new Encyclopaedia Britannica reveal that the hand methods of 1830 required 57.7 man-hours of labor to produce 20 bushels of wheat on one acre of land.

By 1896, machine methods had cut the time to a little under nine man-hours. In 1940, using tractor power, gang plow, tandem disc, harrow, drill, combine and truck, the amount of labor to produce 20 bushels of wheat was only slightly more than four man-hours.

We have come a long way since the 'good old days.'

The more machines are used for farming, the more skilled the workers become and the higher the wages that can be paid them. A demand for skill and a desire to acquire it tend to improve the quality of the rural population.

Farm machinery also has improved product quality. Better yields result from precise planting, proper placing of fertilizer and more thorough harvesting, and in addition, there is less waste through weathering and rotting.

Adapting plants to machines, breeders have produced hybrid corn bearing ears at a uniform height, wheat with stronger stalks and grain sorghums with upright seed heads to speed harvesting.

NOSE-PRINTS OR TATTOO

The tattoo system of equine identification, to prevent substituting ringers in races, is generally advocated.

As early as 1921 it was found that animals could be identified by nose-prints, using a system similar to that used with finger-prints by police authorities. A combination of the two systems should be fool-proof. First, the horse or cattle would be tattooed, then nose-print taken to include the tattoo. This double protection would make an alteration impossible.

Cow Mine Detector

Metal objects often pierce the cow's stomach, then enter the heart and cause severe inflammation and sometimes almost instant death.

With the bovine "mine detector," the veterinarian passes the instrument over the cow, and if she has any metal objects inside her, it produces a ringing sound in the earphones. Then by surgery, the nails and other objects can be removed.

Hexachloro Cyclohexane Finding Many New Uses

A new insecticide now appears containing 50 per cent hexachloro cyclohexane in a wettable powder formulation suitable for application in a water spray and for further dilution for dust application.

It shows promise for control of cattle lice, many insects of cotton, including aphids, and for certain insects that heretofore have been difficult or impossible to control, including locusts and hoppers.

IT MAY interest you to know what various ball players, scouts and managers think about the next two pennant races. Taking a general consensus, here is the vote in both leagues.

In the National league, the Dodgers are sure to be an improved team, with more experience and greater consistency in pitching. Youth rides faster from midsummer on. But the Cardinals are also much stronger than they looked to be a year ago—especially with George M. Cooper, Munger and Johnny Beazley back to help out Pollet, Breechen, Dickson and others.

The Cardinals look to be the class of both leagues. They have a young hustling star catcher—a great pitching staff—the best infield in baseball, with Musial, Schoendienst, Marion and Kurowski, and one of the best outfielders. They have class and spirit. They are not getting any younger and there are still a few "ifs" connected with Terry Moore's knee, the arms of Kurowski and Slaughter, Marion's back and Johnny Beazley. But so far, these highly important cogs seem to be grinding smoothly.

The serious experts I've talked to pick Billy Southworth's Braves as the serious threat.

"If Mort Cooper picks up where he left off last year," one scout told me, "the Braves can challenge the Cardinals and Dodgers. Cooper is a great pitcher—not merely a good one. Southworth is too deep. Elliot will help a lot. The Braves can be a tough club to handle any time."

Cubs for Fourth Place

The Spring vote for fourth place goes to the Cubs. After that, it is anybody's scramble, with the Phillies, Giants, Pirates and Reds in a hard drive to head the second division. But the experts are cagey enough to suggest that one of these might reach the first division.

The Cardinals are the pick. "By all odds, the best all-around team in baseball," one veteran told me. "Only savage ill luck can let them down. They are all class. The Dodgers will hustle, but they won't outshine this Cardinal team—not on the ball field, where they win and lose games."

The Dodgers are packed with "ifs"—Branca, Barney, Head, first base, third base and Pete Reiser. The only Cardinal "if" is a few removed, and replaced, bones.

The consensus in the American league circuit leans strongly to the Red Sox.

I know the Tigers think they will beat out the Yankees. They don't think they can beat out the Red Sox—but they figure there's a chance with better pitching, which they might get. And better pitching can pick up a lot.

Yanks Need DiMaggio

The collapse of Yankee hitting last year, plus the type of spring training they have employed, won't be any big help. Both the Red Sox and Tigers will leave Florida much better conditioned teams. The injury to Joe DiMaggio has been a hard blow. Joe is the Yankee spearhead. There will have to be a terrific upward lift on the part of the Yankees to beat out either Red Sox or Tigers—possibly to head off the Indians. At this moment, the Yankees are not in any too high favor as pennant people. Russo could make a big difference.

Yankee pitching can be O.K., as it was last year, but there must be a big change in Yankee hitting, Yankee spirit, and Yankee hustle. This refers to the Yankees of 1946, not the squad getting ready for 1947. But the 1947 Yankee squad must know by now how many games it lost last year through this wrecking fault. A few transfusions of Cardinal blood could help more than a trifle. You can bank on Bucky Harris, Chuck Dressen and Red Corriden to handle more than their share of the plot, but they are not out on the field winning games.

A Yankee revival could make a big difference, but this means practically the entire team must play better ball outside of Spud Chandler, who is still their best pitcher after some nine years of major league service.

Cleveland Has Hurlers

The vote we have picked up gives Joe Gordon a good year, possibly a big year, with Cleveland pitching all-ways dangerous. The Cleveland outfield, however, is below par. The Tiger infield isn't any too hot, although Kell is close to being the best third baseman in the league.

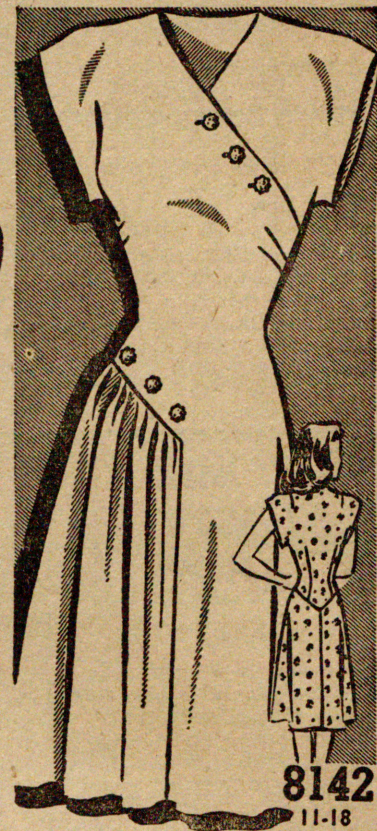

The main job, of course, is suppressing the Red Sox, with Ted Williams, Tex Hughson, Bobby Doerr, Dom DiMaggio and Johnny Pesky.

The vote, at this moment, is Cardinals vs. Red Sox. The next vote is Dodgers vs. Red Sox. The third vote is Cardinals vs. Tigers.

But after all, there is a hot summer on ahead, plus the grind of the stretch.

AN ADORABLE two-piece dress for the six-to-fourteen miss. Brief wing sleeves are cool—the tiny peplum flares ever so gently. Nice for school, too, in the puffed sleeve version with pert Peter Pan collar.

Pattern No. 1614 comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8, 2 1/2 yards of 35-inch.

A defective drainboard at the sink can be repaired by sawing a narrow channel in the front face of the board and inserting a thin strip of sheet copper or lead in the groove. Then bend it over the sink. Use brass screws. They do not rust.

Cane seats can be tightened by scrubbing with a weak solution of soda and water and allowing them to dry. The solution must not be permitted to come in contact with wood surfaces.

A new sashcord should be well stretched before it is installed.

Corduroy is a graceful fabric for windows, furniture coverings and bedspreads, we mean the lightweight type, of course. It has both pattern and plainness and takes to wear and cleaning easily. The narrow-waled kind looks best for interior work. Colors are generally soft.

To get a more powerful twist from your screwdriver, place the claw of the hammer over the blade. Then use the hammer handle to effect leverage.

A vegetable brush really works better than a dish-cloth for washing dishes. It removes sticky spots and is easier to keep clean and sweet.

How to Take Care Of the New Baby

BRINGING UP BABY

After-Bath Care

MANY new mothers wonder whether to put oil or powder on baby's skin after a bath. Which you use isn't so important. What kind you use is vital, however.

Some baby powders contain stearate of zinc. If this chemical is inhaled, a serious and often fatal form of pneumonia develops. You can safely use talcum powder.

Taking care of a new baby is a full-time job. Our new booklet No. 203 can help you in countless ways. Send 25 cents (coin) for "Baby Care" to Weekly Newspaper Service, 243 West 17th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet title and No. 203.

Romance in Bloom

It was in a little Spanish town. The moon shone brightly, the scent of flowers had never been so sweet. It was truly a night for romance.

The young man stood beneath a balcony and serenaded the beautiful senorita. After a few moments a flower pot hurtled through the calm night air and hit the young man on the head.

"Who threw that?" he cried, indignantly.

"I did," answered the senorita. "But don't you like my singing?" asked the puzzled serenader. "I love your singing," she breathed, "but I never did like that flower pot."

A KNOTTY PROBLEM!

BARE HANDS, TIRED FEET

China's millions live in poverty because they have few "capitalists" to provide machinery to help them work. In China you can see coolies unloading coal from boats; carrying it up stairs 500 feet; on their backs. You can see them lugging up 600 steps with water buckets biting into their backs.

Orland Park community high school gymnasium is to be equipped with new bleacher seats, according to a recent issue of the school's attractive mimeographed paper, "High-Time."

The order was placed for a three-tier 84-foot group, measuring 4 feet and 8 inches from front to back.

Estimated seating capacity is 180 persons. The bleachers are of folding type.

Girls of Orland Park community high school who seek quiet moments will have just that soon. The F.H.A. will redecorate the dining room of the home economics department, and the girls will equip the room with a living-room suite paid for by themselves, then install magazines and good books. They have had the book case made as well as shelves put into cabinets in the sewing room.

"It's to be just a typical lounge room for girls who want peace and quiet," according to the school's "High-Time." The girls earned the money for the improvements through the sale of Christmas cards and by sponsoring the "Sweetheart Ball."

★ Fashions ★

Washable cotton-corduroy overalls and windbreaker, shown above as pictured in the issue of Good Housekeeping magazine provide serviceable attire for all school grades.

"To attempt to compel competing employers to guarantee annual wages will either cause more instability or result in monopoly, or both." —Prof. of Economics Lewis Haney, New York University.

ROSE HEDGE SOIL SAVER

It is possible that curving ribbons of blooming rose hedge may within a few years, become a common feature of Mid-west landscapes. Multiflora rose, which grows to a height of six or eight feet, is proving an excellent hedge plant in this area. It required no pruning and in three or four years makes sufficient growth to turn livestock. It is suggested that it be planted on the contour. By so doing, the hedge would not only provide a living check to prevent soil washing, but would also serve as a permanently marked contour line.

DECLINE IN FARM TENANCY

In 1945 farms of tenants and crop-pers made up 32 percent of all U. S. Farms. This is the lowest point of farm tenancy in more than 50 years and compares with a high of 42 percent in the 1930s and nearly 42 percent as late as 1939. This trend is looked upon very favorably by agriculture department officials, but the bureau of agricultural economics cautions that the test lies ahead when prices and incomes go down. The number of foreclosures on farms at that time will tell the tale.

PLAY AT ST. PETER'S

Two plays will be given by the Youth Fellowship of St. Peter's Evangelical church, Frankfort, April 23 at the church parlors. These plays are being directed by Mrs. Lois Ebert of Tinley Park.

They are "Uncle George Pops In," and "Come Out of It," with the following taking part: Sherill Weichbrodt, Marion Schult, Faye June Oetter, George Folkers and Walter Lemke. These take part in the first play.

Those in the second play are: Shirley Weichbrodt, George Sangmeister, Alan Hedges, Dolores Minger; Marion Batson, Richard Lambrecht, Marilyn Bennett and Udell Gay.

There will be a comedy movie shown between plays. A small admission will be charged and the public is most cordially invited to attend.

"STEP-UP" May 1 and 2

"Step-Up" Day, the day on which Will county eighth grade students will be excused to visit the high school which they plan to attend next year, will be Friday, May 2, except for those who plan to attend Peotone high. For students who plan to attend the Peotone high school Step-Up day will be Thursday, May 1.

WHY AUTO PREMIUMS ARE MORE

Here's why an increase in automobile insurance rates is necessary.

1. Bodily injury claim costs have risen as a result of a 30% increase in automobile accident deaths, rural accidents showing a 48% increase. Bodily injury claims are averaging 40% more than in 1941 because of loss of high wages and accelerated medical and hospitalization costs.

2. Property damages and collision claims are likewise mounting. Repair costs are up at least 35%, closely following the upward trend in general living costs. Wages of mechanics are high and repair parts are still scarce and costly.

3. Although 15 million of the 27 million cars on the road should be replaced with new autos, the 1946 output of new cars totals only about

2,200,000 with 5,000,000 expected in 1947. However, new cars are costing from 30 to 50% more than in 1941 so that many older cars will continue on the road, creating a serious hazard.

4. As evidence that old cars are not standing up, the American Automobile Association reports 17% more breakdowns.

5. The 18.7% increase in automobile thefts in 1945 was followed by a 15.5% additional increase in 1946.

6. With highways and streets in poor condition and with drivers operating older cars at faster speeds there is no immediate relief in sight, although insurance safety organizations are doing their utmost to check the rising accident trend.

Drive Carefully, Carry Insurance, Better be safe than sorry. Be careful where ever you see children and old people. Drive Slowly.
